

Bullying-related behaviors: Their associations with moral emotions and moral disengagement

An open seminar at the Institute of Psychology AS CR, Hybernská 8

Lenka Kollerová, Institute of Psychology AS CR

&

Angela Mazzone, University of Applied Sciences Upper Austria

June 14th

3:00 – 4:30 pm

Since bullying clearly transgresses moral principles and defending clearly regards them, morality variables, such as moral emotions or moral disengagement, have been investigated in association with these behaviors. The research has markedly contributed to understanding bullying-related behaviors. The first presentation addresses an interplay between witnessing of bullying and collective moral disengagement in prediction of fear of victimization. The second study introduces interactive effects of guilt and moral disengagement in understanding three behaviors in bullying incidents: bullying, defending, and outsider behavior. Practical implications of the two studies will be discussed.

PROGRAM

3-3.30

Lenka Kollerová & Filip Smolík

Do witnesses of bullying fear more in morally disengaged classrooms?

3.30-4.00

Angela Mazzone, Marina Camodeca & Christina Salmivalli

Interactive effects of guilt and moral disengagement on bullying, defending and outsider behavior

4.00-4.30

Discussion

Acknowledgements:

The seminar is supported by a project Bullying in schools: When do peers defend their bullied classmates? conducted by Austrian team of prof. D. Strohmeier from University of Applied Sciences Upper Austria and Czech team of dr. L. Kollerová from Institute of Psychology AS CR. The project is financed by the Austrian Federal Ministry of Science, Research and Economy and by the Czech Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports (n. 7AMB17AT034).

